INTRODUCTION

Piedmont Atlanta Hospital located in Buckhead is a leader in patient care that's helped the Atlanta community get better and stay well for more than a century. Medical databases serve a critical function in healthcare areas like patient care and administration.

This application of database focuses on real world application system to maintain the day-to-day state of patient admission/discharge, list of doctors and retrieve these details as and when required, pharmacy details, administration, billing and payment processing.

ASSUMPTIONS:

1. The data is limited to 40 records for this assignment. It a just a sample of a huge hospital dataset.
2. Patients of all ages are diagnosed.
3. Each room has single bed.
4. There is only 1 pharmacy in the hospital
5. The hospital has 3 floors and each floor has 10 rooms. The floor number is identified by the first character of the room number (e.g. 101, 204)

CONCEPTUAL MODEL

The hospital database consists of the following entities:

1. Patient
   Holds data related to patient's user id, password, name, age, gender, phone number, address, admit date and discharge date

2. Doctor
   Holds data pertaining to doctor's id, specialization, name, gender, cabin number, phone number and email id

3. Nurse
   Holds data related to nurse's username, password, gender, name and phone number

4. Room
   Holds data related to room allocated to patient's room number, date and status

5. Admin
   Holds data pertaining to admin username, password, email, name, gender and phone number

6. Pharmacy
   Holds data like medical bill number, patient name and amount

7. Hospital Bill
   Holds data related to patient's hospital bill, bill number and the amount
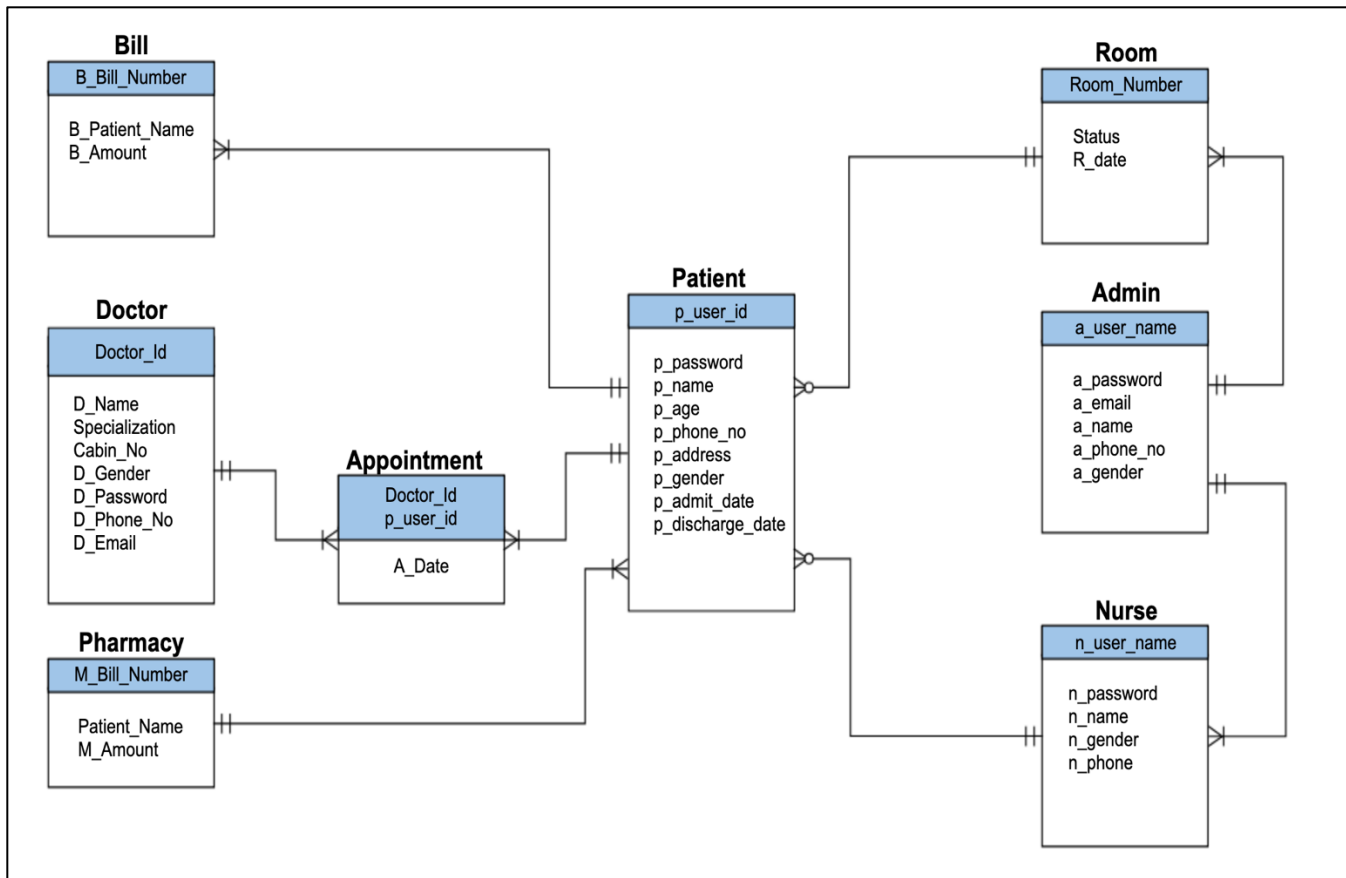

BUSINESS RULES

1. Hospital should have at least one patient.
2. Room may or may not have patient admitted.
3. Every patient can have one or more hospital bills, but each bill should belong to only one patient.
4. There is a relationship attribute Appointment between Patient and Doctor.
5. Each patient may or may not have a medical bill while every medical bill should be there for the patients.
6. Every hospital room may or may not be allocated to a patient, but each patient should be allotted only one room.
7. Each patient can be attended by only one nurse, but each nurse can be assigned to 0 or many patients.
8. The admin keeps tracks of each and every nurse and each nurse reports to a single admin of the hospital.
9. The admin manages every room available in the hospital, but all the rooms are managed by a single admin.

RELATIONAL MODEL

The relational model is created by transforming the conceptual model created above. The entities are transformed into relations/tables. The fields are created using the attributes with properties of primary keys and foreign keys constraints are assigned based on the business rules.

1. Bill
   Primary key : Bill_Number
   - The table has one to many relationship with Patient table, hence the primary key p_user_id of Patient table has been placed in the Bill table as a foreign key

2. Doctor
   Primary key : Doctor_ID

3. Nurse
   Primary key : N_username
   - The table has one to many relationship with Admin table, hence the primary key a_user_name of Admin table has been placed in the Nurse table as a foreign key

4. Pharmacy
   Primary key : Medical_Bill_Number

5. Room
   Primary key : Room_Number
   - The table has one to many relationship with Admin table, hence the primary key a_user_name of Admin table has been placed in the Nurse table as a foreign key

6. Patient
   Primary key : User_ID
   - The table has many to one relationship with Pharmacy table, hence the primary key M_Bill_Number of Pharmacy table has been placed in the Patient table as a foreign key
   - The table one to many relationship with Room table and hence the primary key Room_Number of Room Table has been placed in the Patient table as a foreign key
   - The table one to many relationship with Nurse table and hence the primary key n_user_name of Nurse Table has been placed in the Patient table as a foreign key

7. Admin
   Primary key : A_username

8. Appointment
   - The many to many relationship between Patient table and Doctor table is represented by Appointment table with composite primary keys User_ID and Doctor_ID from Patient and Doctor table placed as foreign keys in the Appointment table along with the attribute Date.
